

Abstract

A system and method for coordinating workflow among resources from a central client is disclosed. A program manager designates projects and assigns resources to complete the projects. The resources download the projects, complete the projects, and upload them for final approval by the program manager. The resources may include translators, editors, printers, quality control, and legal counsel.

TOP SECRET